BUBONICON 43 PANEL DESCRIPTIONS:

1. I KNOW IT WHEN I SEE IT: WHAT EXACTLY IS SF What are the core defining relations of science fiction? Is there something about the setting, characters or plot, regardless of the historical period of the piece that defines SF? How has this changed since, say, Verne? What's the future hold? Do sub-genres divide SF? What are some concrete examples of SF?
2. NAME THAT BABY: FANTASY, SCI-FI, MAINSTREAM? OR NONE OF THE ABOVE? Pigeonholes may be cozy places, and our culture tends to be as black & white about genre as gender: If you ain't this, you must be that. What are the effects, on publishers and readers, of cleaving to "reader expectations"? What experiences have writers had when their work was considered to be neither fish, flesh, nor fowl? How much can genres mix?
3. SELF-PUBLISHING: NEW BLOOD OR PAINFUL OPEN VEIN Has self-publishing flooded the market? Is it all vanity printing or has it become legitimate? What are the pros and cons? Do you need a resume with that book to show its potential merits? What about the absence of an editor on published works? How can a reader tell the good from the bad?
4. THE STATE OF THE ART: SF/F COVER ART Industry professionals and the audience discuss their favorite recent SF/F cover art pieces, as well as some not-so-favorites. Each panelist talks about their selections – why they work and why they don't – with a focus on recent cover art.
5. BEYOND THE GODDESS & THE WHORE: DYNAMIC FEMALE CHARACTERS How does an author go write sympathetic and multi-dimensional female characters? Why does this seem so difficult for some authors? Has there been an emergence of more interesting & less stereotypical women in fiction since 2000? Have traditional women's roles been written like secondary characters? What are some of the pioneering works?
6. CREATIVITY OFF THE PAGE: OTHER ENDEAVORS Many authors pursue other creative endeavors, such as art, costuming, cooking, knitting and photography. What do they get out of these activities that they don't get out of writing? In what ways do these other activities feed their writing? Can they be considered research or stress-reducing techniques?
7. FOR THE LOVE OF CHEESE What is the appeal of cheesy or schlocky movies? What are some of the panelists' favorites? What worked in them? What didn't?
8. INFORMATION APOCALYPSE: DARK AGES AGAIN What happens if the internet crashes? What resources exist to go around any blockage by a government or terrorist group? With most info only on electronic formats, are we entering a new Dark Age if nothing is printed out? Or is that Luddite thinking? Will we become the next lost civilization if computers are gone? Why does it seem the higher the tech, the sooner its format is obsolete?
9. LOOK, UP IN THE SKY: SUPERHERO MOVIES Are comic books becoming the go-to sources for movies? Are they more popular with viewers than readers? Are they faithful to the source materials? Should they be? Which superheroes should be brought to the big screen? Which ones shouldn't be? Which superhero films are you looking forward to in 2011-2012? Which have you seen & which are worth seeing?
10. ZOMBIES, ANGELS & WEREWOLVES, OH MY: FUTURE TRENDS Now that vampires suck and zombies are pretty much dead, what's next in horror and paranormal fantasy/romance? Have angels caught on? What of those hairy werewolves? What draws us to the paranormal? What creature could inspire writers in the future? Does everything that goes around come back around?
11. RE-INVENTING YOURSELF: THE USE OF PSEUDONYMS What are the advantages & difficulties of a pseudonym? Is one vital to re-launch a career? When else are they needed? Can you create a "brand" of writing, and reader expectation, by using a different name? How do you tell your friends, writing buddies & fans? Can you separate the writers in your head between projects? Just how important is a bio back story to the illusion?
12. CLASSICS OF SF: FOCUS ON JULES VERNE It's important to remember the pioneers & classics of SF. This year, the focus is on Jules Verne. Is he Steampunk's father? How well has he been translated into English? Why is he important? What works of his should be read?
13. SELF-CREATED SELF-DESTRUCTION: SOLUTIONS & IMPLICATIONS In 2000, Bill Joy of Sun Microsystems warned that the "illimitable power" of technology could destroy the human species in the 21st century – a "techno-apocalypse." He stated, "The cleverer we are, the bigger the problem we create." Is this true? Do humans think about the implications of technology? What about the Law of Unintended Consequences? Do electric cars solve anything? What about unintended pathogens created by biotechnology? Or Nanotechnology creating tiny weapons? Is it all paranoid dystopian talk?
14. DIG ON THIS AGAIN: ALIEN ARCHAEOLOGY It's an idea that's been done at many cons, including the 2005 Bubonicon, so how about it again! Join a band of intrepid Indiana Jones-wannabes as they inspect, analyze and interpret a variety of otherworldly artifacts. Panelists should bring 4-6 objects each, which could be anything from Venusian sex toys to Altairean toaster ovens. Look out PBS! Here's the Alien Antique Roadshow!
15. STEAMPUNK DEFINITIONS: MORE THAN VICTORIAN CLOTHING Does Steampunk have to be set in Victorian England? Has it worked well elsewhere, like in the Old West? Have efforts like Brisco County, Boneshaker and Zeppelins West worked? Beyond the clothing and trappings, has Steampunk created a real niche yet? Is there a shorthand for explaining it to new folks yet? Were Verne and Wells Steampunk authors?
16. eBooks TO THE RESCUE? THE FUTURE OF READING A growing number of authors are re-publishing their out-of-print works via online options, or even making original fiction available. What are the logistics and challenges? As bookstores file bankruptcy or go out of business, what is the future of publishing? Will it be the convenience of eBooks or brick-and-mortar stores? Do younger readers mean more eBooks? Where do authors go to meet fans & sign electronic books?
17. HOLY TERROR: FUTURE NIGHTMARES What's the worst future you can imagine? Are we headed there? How do you terrify an audience of viewers or readers? Are there common themes that work on the majority? Can you imagine something worse than Barney the Purple Dinosaur as President?
18. WILL SF BECOME PASSE: CAN IT AVOID BECOMING "QUAINT" As technology rapidly advances, can SF keep up? Will SF stay relevant? Can it stay valid with how rapid change and development happen? For instance, some scientists are predicting 3-D avatars on cell phone and batteries that run on little more than air in the next 10 years. How can the genre keep up? Will SF become "quaint" in our lifetime?
19. TELL THE PROS: FAN FEEDBACK/WISH LIST In this panel, the audience will tell the pros what they want to read next. What do fans want to see by way of SF and Fantasy yarns? What really bugs readers that they'd like to see less of. Panelists, obviously, will express their opinions on subjects raised, and also ask for feedback on specific ideas they have for future projects. In other words, the fans just might tell the pros how to do their jobs! Or not...
