PANEL DESCRIPTIONS 2024 ----

- 1. MY FAVORITE DRAGON: FROM SMAUG TO PETE -- There are lots and lots of dragons in fantasy fiction (and Pern). What is the appeal of these scaled giant lizards? What makes them so memorable? Can Godzilla be considered to be a dragon? And from Tolkien's Smaug and Disney's Pete to Asprin's Gleep and Paolini's Eragon, what are some of the panelists' favorite dragons? Why? Are there any dragons that just don't work as creatures and/or characters? What went wrong with them? And what about dragons who speak? The dragons of George RR Martin's Song of Ice and Fire books don't speak, but Smaug from The Hobbit is quite loquacious and Draco makes comments in Dragonheart...
- 2. MODERATING 101: HOW YOU DO IT -- A panel (ideally held during the first time bloc on Friday) for new and perspective moderators at which panelists (drawn from experienced moderators) discuss tips and techniques, the role of the moderator, and maybe share a couple of "challenging anecdotes"; and how they handled them. This is an idea borrowed from MileHiCon in Denver. While they don't make it mandatory, attendance for first time moderators is encouraged.
- 3. NO ONE LIVES FOREVER: IMMORTALITY -- How does SF/F handle immortality? What did Heinlein do with Lazarus Long's long life? What about Star Trek's Flint in "Requiem for Methuselah"? Not to mention Oscar Wilde's The Picture of Dorian Gray and James E. Gunn's The Immortals. After you've lived a couple of thousand years, would death come as a relief? Would it drive someone crazy? What are the implications of immortality or a very long life? How would it affect a person to watch their loved ones and friends pass away again and again? What about mind uploading to create digital immortality? Would you finally read all those books you've been meaning to tackle? Would we run out of parking?
- 4. WHEN WE WERE YOUNG: EARLY FAVES -- Panelists share their favorite books from when they were teens, tweens and children. Find out what books inspired their imaginations, which ones hooked them on SF/Fantasy, and which ones made them want to try their own hand at creating stories. Are these books still inspiring today's young minds? Which of today's books might be tomorrow's great memories? What got you started in speculative fiction? Was it delight, geekiness, escape from weird parents, escape from or camaraderie with weird peers?
- 5. BANG & BOO: HORROR/THRILLER TROPES IN ONE STORY -- There's all sorts of horror, from supernatural to psychological to cosmic; and thrillers range from psychological to police profilers to spy adventures. When a novel does several of these at the same time, is it too much? What are some examples where a book succeeded in pushing several subgenres? What are some examples where it didn't work out? What are the ingredients for success when a horror story has its feet in multiple subgenres? What about the same for a thriller? And what is the appeal of these genres? When is the "jump scare" effective or and when is tension palatable? Different people have different tastes what will you not read in horror and/or thrillers?
- 6. ARTIST CHAT (with as many artists as possible) -- Ever wonder about your favorite artist? What to know more about their process? Are you just nosey and want to learn some juice tidbits? Them come to the Artists Chat, and see what you can learn. This relaxed chat is designed to make the artists more accessible and have a little fun at the same time.
- 7. IF I HAD IT ALL TO DO AGAIN: LESSONS LEARNED -- Looking back at their early careers, authors discuss what they would have done different. What has hindsight brought to their careers and writing techniques? What about discipline at the beginning versus now? What advice can authors share based on their early days?
- 8. ALIEN CONTACT: THE GOOD, THE BAD, THE FUNNY -- In a lot of Alien Contact fiction and movies, the aliens are invaders hell-bent on destroying us, taking over or using us for food (War of the Worlds, Independence Day, Twilight Zone's "To Serve Man") Not to mention Slugs from Space (Slither, Grabbers). In other fiction, they are friendly or observers (E.T., Starman, The Day the Earth Stood Still). And then there are the funny aliens (Martians Go Home, The Road To Roswell, 3rd Rock from the Sun). Why so much invasion? Is it a stereotype based on our feelings about "The Other"? What are some of the panelists' favorite alien contact stories? What about favorite invasion stories? What are some other recommended friendly alien or funny alien stories/films/TV shows? How do you make alien contact funny but also believable?
- 9. STOP THAT, DROID: BEYOND THE THREE LAWS OF ROBOTICS -- AI and Machine Learning seems to have gone beyond what Asimov predicted when he created the Three Laws of Robotics. Based on current science and technology, what might be the next laws to be installed in these artificial lifeforms? What about social taboos, racism and derogatory language? Looking at Martha Wells' Murderbot, is it possible that a real-life robot or Artificial Intelligence could overwrite its programming? Given that they might find us fallible, how important are these robotic rules? And should ChatGPT be consulted?
- 10. THE ART OF THE CRITIQUE: I KNOW WHAT I LIKE -- We've all seen a lot of online "critiques," which really don't help much or give a lot of information. What is needed in an effective critique? What's the difference between a review and a critique? What are the reasons you like something or dislike it that should be explained in your critique? Why doesn't a culture of critique exist now? Is social media to blame or is it creating an atmosphere of low expectations? Does a work of fiction or an art piece have to work for everyone?

- 11. MYTHS, GODS & MONSTERS ACROSS CULTURES -- The new Percy Jackson adaptation was released on Disney+ in January and there are several books, movies, and shows that explore classic mythologies from Roman and Greek to Norse to Egyptian to Hindu to Chinese to Korean and Japanese. This doesn't seem to be a passing fad, right? What do they have in common? What is uniquely different? How many times can a story be told? Why go back to the folklore well over and over? What is the appeal? What's the most unique folklore panelists have heard/read?
- 12. HOW YOUR CHARACTERS GROW: EVOLUTION OVER TIME -- When you're writing multiple books with the same characters, how can they evolve without torpedoing the series? What nuances can you use? Can a character totally change during the course of a series? Which characters in published fiction live and breathe for the reader because of their emotional and/or spiritual journey?
- 13. A BOOK NAMED GIZMO: A NOVEL OR STORY BY ANY OTHER NAME -- It's been pretty well established that character names have power or description. But what about the title of a book or story, or even a chapter heading? What's in a name? Does it matter whether a book is simply named Gizmo or Space Adventure? What about a short story title? Do titles have power or do they just help publicize/sell a book? Can a story's title add appeal for readers? How do you come up with cool titles? Is there a difference in creating a title for SF vs Fantasy? And what about chapter headings? What is their purpose? Do they add to the joy of reading a book or distract? What are some of the best titles in genre fiction?
- 14. SNACKWRITES: WRITING EXERCISES -- In 2018, SnackReads launched SnackWrites to help people whom life gives little time to be able to learn some writing craft and keep the dream alive. The moderator and participants will lead attendees through some of the writing exercises, and offer suggestions for time-constrained writing.
- 15. RESEARCH JOY: WRITING ABOUT SOMETHING YOU KNOW NOTHING ABOUT -- How much detail is enough to sound credible without bogging down the story? How do you avoid "facts" that are irrelevant or inaccurate? How does one become an instant expert in time to meet an editorial deadline? Just how much research is needed? And what do you do with all that research that would just bog down the book/story?
- 16. INSTANT SLUSH PILE: LIVE REVIEWS -- This is a live feedback panel. If you are interested, bring a printed-out page (no more than 300 words) for review. It should be completely anonymous (don't include your name anywhere on the manuscript). You can turn in your manuscript at Registration on the day of the panel, or at the very beginning of the panel. Manuscripts will be shuffled and then read out loud. Editors (and other panelists) will indicate whether they would buy this story or finish reading it, and provide a quick critique of the work. Submitters can choose to reveal themselves or not. [Lou J. Berger will moderate all interested parties will be forwarded to him for consideration.]
- 17. CREATIVITY OFF THE PAGE: OTHER ENDEAVORS -- Many authors pursue other creative endeavors, such as art, costuming, cooking, knitting and photography. What do they get out of these activities that they don't get out of writing? In what ways do these other activities feed their writing? Can they be considered research or stress-reducing techniques?
- 18. TOMORROW THROUGH THE PAST: ROME IN SPACE -- From Asimov's Foundation to Palmer's Terra Ignota, writers have been using examples from history to worldbuild the future, whether it's putting the Napoleonic Wars or Vietnam in space or re-enacting the settlement of the American west on other planets. Ken MacLeod has said, "History is the trade secret of science fiction." Why do we have this compulsion to re-enact the past when thinking about the future? What are some of the advantages of doing it? What about challenges and drawbacks?
- 19. CHANGING YOUR MIND: TURN & FACE THE STRANGER -- If you could take a pill to make yourself smarter, would you? How about to make yourself, or someone you know, less violent? Or more forgiving? What if you could turn off your fears with a switch, letting you do a dangerous job without distraction? As neuroscientists learn more about the brain and how to affect it, possibilities like these move closer to reality. Is this a good thing? Panelists discuss the possibilities.
- 20. CREATING ALIEN FAUNA: WHAT ABOUT THE BIRDS & BEES? -- What considerations should you make when imagining animals on an alien world? Would alien worlds have mammals, reptiles, and birds? Or would evolution create other types of life? What would limit the types of life you would find on an alien world? How do you keep the alien lifeforms relatable for the reader? What odd animals exist here on Earth that would be a great basis for an animal on another planet?
- 21. POWER AND DANGER OF WORDS/LANGUAGE -- Yes, Words can lift people up. But Words also can start fights and wars and religions and cults. Words in a certain order can make people weep with joy or sadness. Just how important are our words and the intent behind them? What creates such power in Words? How are Words used for Good? How are they used for Bad? Society seems to be becoming more and more divisive did certain Words make this more possible? Can works of fiction have enough power to influence people? Do "labels" help words gain power? What Words do we hear more in an Election Year? Why?
